

WE NOMINATE

Lee Hastings Bristol Jr., 41-year old educator, author, composer and churchman, who this past week startled the Princeton Community — and many of those who know him well — with the announcement that, effective July 1, 1969, he is resigning as president of Westminster Choir College, the 42-year old institution founded in Ohio in 1926 and moved to Princeton some 35 years ago. Declining to discuss his plans beyond June, 1969, Bristol quietly exploded the bomb in these words: "The College has never been in better shape in every way; it is a propitious time for the Board of Trustees to find some one to take my place."

Over the past six years Bristol, a remarkable and at times ingenious operator in the public relations area, has worked wonders for the once-floundering Choir College. Since 1962 it has for the first time gained full academic accreditation from the Middle Atlantic States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, has jumped its enrollment from 220 to 360, has launched a long-overdue construction program, including a women's residence with classrooms and an unusual "library-learning center," and, possibly most important of all, has gained new respect in the groves of academe for programs of study revamped "from top to bottom."

Beyond firmly indicating that he will remain in Princeton, where his and his family's roots run deep, Bristol has discussed his resignation in institutional rather than in personal terms. "I gave up a career in business in 1962," he said the other day, "to become president of this College in a somewhat depressing period in its history. I knew full well the time would come when a different kind of president, able to make a different form of contribution, would be desirable to take my place. It is my considered judgment that the time has now come . . . to provide for a new president and an orderly succession."

Bristol, the grandson of one of the founders of the Bristol-Myers Pharmaceutical Company and for five pre-Westminster years the internationally known firm's public relations director, is the newly named vice-chairman of the Episcopal Church's Joint Commission on Music and has long been identified with the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World. These two associations suggest that the versatile Bristol, a brilliant musician and a Lay Reader in the Protestant Episcopal Dioceses of New Jersey, Long Island and New York, may well be shouldering major commitments to his church in the years ahead.

It was a short decade ago that Bristol, a hymnologist of distinction and possessor of a facile literary pen, demonstrated his powers of concentration and his promise as a writer with the publication of "Seed for a Song," an excellently paced biography of Robert Nelson Spencer, former Bishop of the Diocese of Western Missouri. While most of the research was done in the relative calm of Bristol's Princeton home, he did a great deal of the writing on the jolting, nerve-jangling Pennsylvania Railroad — and most often with his briefcase jiggling on his knees on the 5:55 out of Manhattan's Pennsylvania Station.

For, in the words of a Westminster Trustee, "bringing Westminster to this milestone in ways that will put this College eternally in his debt;" for his achievements as a member of what a retired university president has called "the highly respected, overworked and ever-hopeful order of mendicants;" for his contributions to the forward movement of Princeton Town and Gown; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

BACK TO SCHOOL.
Budget Cut Again. Princeton's two governing bodies announced at a special public meeting Thursday night in Borough Hall that they had cut another $74,900 from the Princeton Regional Schools budget.

At the same meeting, the school board announced that it would not appeal to the State Commissioner of Education.

The municipal action brings to $178,400 the total sliced from the original school budget. After the first budget defeats, the school board itself cut back $103,500.

It is now up to the school board to decide where to make the cuts that will total the required $74,900. In theory, the board has until the end of the school's fiscal year, June 30 — to accomplish this; in fact, however, the board will have to make some decisions immediately for planning purposes, according to Philip E.
McPherson, school superintendent.

Charles Cornforth, finance chairman of Borough Council, was spokesman at Thursday night's historic meeting for the two municipal governing bodies — Borough Council and Township Committee.

He said that Council and Committee, in consultation with board members, had decided on 25 budget items which could be delayed or reduced, chiefly in the areas of capital outlay, building and grounds administration.

What's To Cut? Mr. Corn-forth did not specify what the 25 items were, and municipal officials and school board members alike have declined to say publicly what is on the list.

Members of Committee and Council point out that the municipal bodies are not legally allowed to cut individual items anyway (only the board can do that) and therefore, by extension, should not say what the recommended cuts are.

Exact cuts will be announced publicly when they have been decided on by the board, said Mrs. George Fre-mon, board president.

"Except for suggesting the elimination of one new program, we have avoided asking for cuts in areas of instruction to the student," Mr. Cornforth said on Thursday night. "The keynote has been 'deferral' — can you delay this for another year? In two is the question we repeatedly asked the board."
The law requires, Mr. Corn-forth explained, that when two deficits throw the school budget into the hands of municipal bodies, the governing councils must maintain "a thorough and efficient school system."

"A SUPERB SUPERINTENDENT" Praise for Philip E. McPherson, superintendent of the Princeton Regional Schools, came from all who participated in the budget discussions.

"These cuts give the board little elbow-room and no chance to build up a surplus,"
Mr. Cornforth commented.

He suggested that the board might have gotten a higher
Commissioner of Education (school officials aren't so sure). However, the board did not want to cause the rift in the community that might have come with appeal.

Although no specific "cut"
items have been revealed, it is known that two items will definitely remain: the new biology lab at Princeton High School and the conversion of the Valley Road auditorium to a middle school library.

How Much? As for the impact on the Princeton taxpayer, neither Administrator Robert F. Mooney for the Borough nor Joseph R. Nini for the Township will give a figure based on Princeton's classic
"$30,000 house."

Informal estimates indicate that the two cuts may mean a saving for the Township's $30,000 taxpayer of about $11 a year, and for the Borough's $30,000 home-owner, about $7.
These are not, it should be emphasized, official figures.

Board Statement. "Obviously, we believe that our original budget was at a level which represented educational progress we felt was desirable for Princeton," said the board in a statement read Thursday night by Mr. McPherson.

"The sum of $178,400 can be looked at in two ways: as a about 3% of the total budget, which one might say is not much or as about three-quarters of the amount we had hoped to use for improvement of programs and personnel, in short — for progress.

"This is, of course, the chief source of our disappointment.

... We know that the needs of children do not wait. We all sincerely hope that another year, we can be more successful in convincing the citizens of Princeton that these needs are important and urgent."

When the historic moment of a vote came on Thursday night in Borough Hall, the Township's mayor Carl C. Schafer barged his gavel on the unfamiliar Borough desk and called his colleagues to order.
The assembled Township Committeemen voted unanimously in favor of the revised budget.
Borough Mayor Henry S.
Patterson then followed suit,
and Borough Council voted its approval.

All For One? Municipal and school officials have been almost unanimous in underscoring another's dedication, sense of responsibility, willingness to cooperate. The decision of the board not to appeal to Trenton in itself speaks elo-quently for a desire to maintain community wholeness, and to solve family problems at home.

However, it was obvious at Thursday night's meeting that the situation had rubbed nerves and tempers raw. One party to the conferences estimated that everyone had put in 23½ hours of meetings.

Municipal administrators and finance chairmen, mayors and school board members had met all day the preceding Saturday; they had been in a meeting from 8 p.m. to 2:30

in the morning the day of the public hearing.

Detailed Questions. Council and Committee didn't want the budget decision — it was tossed at them by the law. One official said, "We don't know anything about class size or teaching load — we're not competent to make judgments about that kind of technical thing."

But they did ask detailed and scaring questions about the kind of thing they do know: for example, the budget asked $15,000 to use if something goes askew with the Valley Road boiler. How did the board and administration arrive at the $15,000? What's the condition of the boiler? Maybe $15,000 isn't too much per gallon for gas line.

Another official, commending the board for its cooperation, said that board members brought up items that municipal officials didn't realize were open to reduction.

On both Council and Committee sit economy-minded men and what one official referred to as "a small minority" on both bodies, though the $74,900 wasn't enough. Other men thought no more cutting should be done at all. One question remains in the air, now that it's all over. Will the board protect itself in the future by deliberately padding a budget? Mr. McPherson is said to have given emphatic assurances that the board definitely will not.

Burton Peskin, Township finance Committee member who was in at the heart of the discussions, summed it up in an informal report Monday night. "Now, let's go back to school."

McPherson Praised

"Philip McPherson is not only a good school superintendent, but a superb one, and he will make a very substantial contribution to this community over the next few years."

The words came from Township Committee member John Wallace at Monday night's Committee meeting and they reflected the feelings about Mr. McPherson spoken in public and private by almost every school and municipal official who worked with the young superintendent during the last, trying days of the school budget.

Praise for Mr. McPherson dwelt on the depth of his knowledge — astonishing in one who has been in town and on the job only eight months — and on what Mr. Wallace called his "propriety" in answering questions that were frequently posed in an atmosphere of high tension.

Our questions were chiefly directed to Mr. McPherson and he knew the answers quickly, accurately and in depth," said Councilman Charles Cornforth.

"I am proud to live in a community which has a school superintendent of his stature," Mr. Wallace concluded.

Committee to Examine Princeton's Relationship to the Institute for Defense Analysis which recommends that the University take joint action with other members of IDA to change the IDA structure "to one in which universities are not responsible for its management and activities."

The report, which was approved by a substantial number of faculty members present, is based on "an evaluation of institutional relations, not of foreign policy." It points out that joint action with IDA's 11 members, rather than a precipitate, unilateral withdrawal, "would permit an orderly transition from IDA's present form of organization to a new one."

Opposed to the five member majority report was a minority opinion signed by Samuel D. Arts, professor of classics, and Robert C. Jahn, professor of aerospace science, which did not approve of complete dissolution from IDA. During the debate, a motion by Prof. Joseph R. Strayer to substitute the committee's minority report was defeated, 95-77.

Two other amendments, one setting December as the deadline for disassociation or withdrawal, the other sponsored by Prof. Stanley J. Stein, which would have recognized that student activism (notably the SDS strike last October) as having first brought the attention to the faculty's attention, were also defeated.

The majority opinion was signed by Professors William H. Branson, economics and public affairs; Edward T. Cone, music; Stanley Kelley Jr. (chairman, politics); Arno J. Mayer, history; and Arthur S. Wightman, mathematical physics.

After the meeting, Prof. Kelley said that presumably the next step would be for President Goheen to present the faculty's decision to the University's trustees and the IDA board of trustees.

PDS ALUMNI TO MEET

To Organize Association. An open meeting of all alumni of Miss Fine's School, Princeton Country Day School, and Princeton Day School will be held Tuesday at 8 a.m. in the PDS library, to form the Princeton Day School Alumni Association.

The meeting will elect officers for the group, discuss purposes and projects, and consider a draft constitution. Nominations will be made by a committee and also accepted from the floor.

SOTO CAUGHT IN NYC
Awaft Extradition Here, Jose Soto, the suspected killer of bank teller Kirsti Pfister, was apprehended in New York City about 11:15 Monday night. Soto, 29, was held overnight in the Federal House of Detention in lower Manhattan and then turned over to the FBI by New York police. He was arraigned Tuesday afternoon in Federal Court in Foley Square, Manhattan, charged by the FBI with an attempted bank hold-up.

As a result of that hearing, Soto was returned to the Federal House of Detention. Bail was set at $200,000. Chief Peter J. McCrohan reported that Detective Robert McAvenna and Mercer County Detective Matthew Malone would go to New York Thursday with detainers for his appearance here on a charge of murdering Mrs. Pfister on February 13 in an attempted hold-up at the Princeton Bank and Trust Co.

How soon Soto would be extradited to Princeton was unknown. "He has to be given all his rights," said Chief McCrohan. "He has to have legal aid. What happens next will be largely up to what his lawyers decide."

Red Tape Foreseen. "One way to get around this is to have the Federal government try him on one of its charges and then turn him over to us. This depends on whatever course the U.S. Federal Attorney in Newark, the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office and Soto's lawyer decide on," he said.

"We'll get him!" he continued. "There will be some problems, we have to work out all the legal ramifications, but we'll get him!" Chief McCrohan said that Soto would have to be booked in the Borough and a hearing for probable cause held here before he would be turned over to the Prosecutor's Office.

Extradition proceedings to this area are being handled by Mercer County Prosecutor Vincent Panaro. "Mr. Panaro has instructed me to be very careful in what I say," reported Chief McCrohan. He declined to give any information about the actual capture of Soto. "We want to make sure we do everything right," he said.

Informer Tips Police According to reports released from the FBI, an informer tipped New York police that Soto was living with a woman in a fourth-floor apartment on Columbus Avenue. Two detectives from New York City's 24th Precinct went to arrest him.

Soto put up a struggle. He jumped out a front window and ran down a fire escape. After a two-block chase by police, he was apprehended at Columbus Avenue and 86th Street. He was reported to be armed.

Sara Fuentes, 27, the woman Soto was allegedly living with, will be charged with harbouring a fugitive. "This may slow up the extradition," commented Chief McCrohan.

GO-AHEAD FOR HOUSING
State Grants Funds. A $13,500 no-interest loan has been granted by the State Department of Community Affairs as "seed money" to Princeton Community Housing, Inc., the middle-income housing organization.

The money will be used to finance a preliminary survey of sites in the Borough—parking lots — to make preliminary design and to work out ways of solving problems of parking and finance.

Theodore M. Vial, president of P.C.H., Inc., says he hopes the studies can be completed within three months. With a site chosen and proposals in hand, P.C.H. will go to the Borough with its plan, then back to the state for additional money for detailed engineering studies.

Plans call for about 100 middle-income apartment units, possibly incorporating stores, offices and parking garages into the apartment buildings to help pay the rent.

Range Defined. Russell Geddes, architect for P.C.H. Inc., will be in charge of the preliminary studies. Mr. Vial says P.C.H. and Mr. Geddes have also been invited to use the services of the Borough's planning consultants.

Community Housing has defined "middle-income" as the $6,000 — $12,000 range, with apartments renting at $30 to $35 per room per month. Princeton residents and people employed in the Princeton area will be given preference in applications.

Princeton Community Housing's loan comes from the $1 million appropriated by the legislature to carry out the Community Affairs Demonstration Law of 1967, administered by the State Housing Finance Agency under Thomas V. Seessel.

The state is anxious to get middle-income housing projects going in Princeton. Mr. Vial says, to encourage other suburban communities in similar endeavors.

THREE ACCIDENTS FRIDAY
In Township. There was a sizable number of accidents last week in the Borough and Township, three of which took place on Friday.

At 6:55 in the morning, John P. Biewener, 39, of 8 Weidel Drive, Pennington, skidded off the side of Rosedale Road and hit a tree head-on.

He was slightly injured. The mishap took place near Fairway Drive.

At 12:18 p.m., Mrs. Lillian V. Lake, 67, of Monmouth Junction, collided with Mrs. Mary T. Murray, 37, of Windy Hill Farm, Princeton, at the intersection of the Great Road and Pretty Brook Road.

Mrs. Murray had no visible injuries but told police she would see her doctor. She told them she had stopped on the Great Road to turn left onto Pretty Brook and the next thing she knew she had been hit.

Mrs. Lake, traveling the opposite way on the Great Road, was charged by P.I. David Funk with failing to yield. Both cars had to be towed away.

Wind Blows Truck Astray. Those lion-like winds of Friday also caused an accident between two trucks on Route 206 at 2:45.

Ernest Peel Jr., 61, of Levittown, Pa., told Township police that as he came over the crest of Bruer's Hill, the wind hit his truck, causing him to lose control. He crossed into — Continued on Next Page

A REAL LIVE TROLL... In the middle, that's a genuine Norwegian troll. We have it on the word of Mrs. Eldred Nordlie (right), Norwegian (see her costume?) now living in Princeton. Mrs. Nordlie's family came to Princeton (Schley left) when Julanna was an American Field Service student in Norway. (See the Norwegian sweater and cap Mrs. Nordlie had for her?) Both young women, active in Girl Scouting, will appear this Sunday at "Girl Scout Sunday" at the John Witherspoon School.

March Mixture

First it's cold.
And then it's not —
But one thing sure:
It sure ain't hot!

Sunday's temperature dipped into the teens. By Tuesday, the thermometer was heading toward 50.

Too soon for anything hot, but generally mild weather is in store for the next few days. Weekend showers are a possibility, the Man reports, but so far he has no thoughts about one of those unreasonable March snowstorms.

the opposite lane and struck a pickup truck operated by Antonio Procaccini, 51, of 319 Witherspoon Street. The latter truck had to be towed away.

Both drivers suffered assorted cuts and bruises. Sgt. Lester Anderson investigated.

Two cars skidded into the same pole on Lehigh Road in Thursday night's light snow storm.

Daniel Leih, 29, of Washington, lost control of his '67 sports car when he had to apply his brakes after the car in front of him had stopped abruptly. He skidded into a pole near the Johnson Park School drive.

Arthur A. Fog, 52, 2383 Pennington Avenue, Pennington, traveling behind the Leih car, hit the same pole and bounced off Mr. Leih's car. Mr. Fog's car had to be towed away.

The twin mishap took place at 9:45 p.m. There were no injuries.

Borough Has Two. There were a pair of accidents in the Borough on Thursday.

Robert S. Sylvester, 21, of Princeton Arms Apartment, was knocked to the roadway at 4:29 when he ran between two trucks on Nassau Street near the intersection of Witherspoon. He was taken in a patrol car to Princeton Hospital where he was treated for a bruised left leg and back pains.

Police said the victim had emerged from one of the trucks waiting in line for the light and had run around the front in an attempt to cross Nassau. He was knocked down but not run over.

Police made no charges against the driver of the pickup which struck Mr. Sylvester. They identified him as Martin Maine, 61, of Brunswick Pike.

At 4:15, two cars collided in the run-slacked intersection of Moore and Wiggins Sts. Theodore Lewis ticketed Mrs. Lotte N. Sackowitz, 46, of Roosevelt, for failing to observe a Moore Street stop sign. She struck a car driven by Mrs. Dorothy A. Servis, 42, of 407 Ewing Street.

Mrs. Sackowitz complained of dizziness. Mrs. Servis of pain in her right leg. Neither was taken to the hospital.

John H. Emerson, 18, of Princeton Drive, Princeton Junction, was issued summonses for reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident late Saturday afternoon after he had struck three parked cars on Prospect Avenue and continued on.

A witness told police that the car appeared to strike the cars intentionally. Mr. Emerson told Sgt. Theodore Lewis that he had tried to unlock his glove compartment and lost control. He added that his foot pushed the gas pedal and the car left at the same time.

The parked cars were owned by Irene Morrow of 120 Prospect, Aimet S. Cakmak, 120 Prospect, and John J. Sen of Bloomfield. All were able to be driven away, although the left side of each was damaged.

ALL CLEAR ON DOGS. At Riverside. Anyway. The dog problem at Riverside School seems to have been solved for the spring semester at any rate.

Township Administrator

Joseph R. Nini reported to Committee Monday night that there were no dogs at all operation from neighbors who have kept their dogs indoors until the children were in school." Mr. Nini observed that pawlicked, one each, on Wednesday and Thursday, had been given summonses.

"Our dog officer and the Township have had obvious cooperation from neighbors who have kept their dogs indoors until the children were in school." Mr. Nini observed that pawlicked, one each, on Wednesday and Thursday, had been given summonses.

"One was then added, 'On to Littlebrook!'"
By-Pass Hearing. Mr. Nini and Township Engineer Frank Quinby will represent the municipality on Tuesday.

It's our anniversary. Three quarters of a century ago this month, the First National Bank of Princeton was founded. While it's customary to measure anniversaries in years, we'd prefer to measure ours in the number of Princeton-area families who have built for the future with savings deposited with us, the number of homes we've helped build with mortgage loans, the number of cars and boats and home improvements we've helped purchase. And we'd prefer to measure our history in the number of businesses and industries we've been able to serve with a full range of banking services. Above all, we'd prefer to measure it in the number of people who've found that banking is a friendly thing at Princeton's First National. But we're not just sitting back recalling the past, we're looking to the future, introducing the most modern banking techniques and equipment so that we may serve you better today and tomorrow than we were able to yesterday. We look forward to seeing you at our conveniently located main office or at either of our branch banks, where you'll find plenty of free parking plus handy drive-in facilities.

MAIN OFFICE: corner of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets.
DRIVE-IN BRANCHES: 370 East Nassau Street and in Princeton Junction at 40 Washington Road.

News Of The THEATRES

"FAUSTUS" OPENS

In McCartier Repertory, There's a lot of busy excitement on stage at McCartier now that Christopher Marlowe's Dr. Faustus has come up from the underworld to enter the repertory.

The good Doctor brings with him such a pack of fireworks and devils, alarms and explosions as McCartier has never heard before; a low platform alter in front of the stage is less an altar, in fact, than a busy little self-sustaining chemistry lab, full of unholly smoke and lots of brimstone. It also serves as Faustus' final one-way passage to hell and the McCartier basement.

We lead with fireworks because the production itself is what you'll remember from this "Dr. Faustus." The man who sells out and lives to repent it has been a classic figure of tragedy for a long time and he most certainly exists in today's world.

However, the should-I-shouldn't-I philosophizing of Faustus, within its context of medieval theology, doesn't have much to say to a modern audience. At McCartier, you listen and watch because you're curious to see what will explode next.

Ken Costigan's direction is first-rate. He has made his cuts with skill, drawing the play in closer for a more unified whole, and he has directed with a keen eye for theatre. His opening scene brings on a group of monks, moving serenely in the movements of the Mass, and his closing scene, in total contrast, is the holocaust of Faustus' descent into hell.

For his Good and Evil Angels, Mr. Costigan uses disembodied voices against a night sky and his Spirits are sometimes blips of light against the darkness. We wish Lucifer himself had also been a voice from the void — the terrible Prince of Darkness is Arthur Lithgow standing up there like the Ghost in Hemlock and in a little while you see Mr. Lithgow down on stage as a fudgy-dudgy old Pope and somehow it takes the terror out of Lucifer, but perhaps this is a quibble.

George Hearn is Faustus. Mr. Hearn is a highly competent actor, as we have had occasion to notice before, but Faustus isn't his role. McCartier subscribers may well have wished that David Byrd had been given the part, but we understand Mr. Byrd is no longer with the company. Faustus demands a stronger hand of brooding darkness in the soul than Mr. Hearn shows.

Mephistopheles, the servant who does Faustus' bidding, is played by Rudy Caringi, a newcomer to the company. He appears throughout the play except for a very exciting moment at the beginning — in the guise of a Dominican monk. Mr. Caringi is droll in the part, so quiet and limp in his loose role so remote from the stereotype we have of Mephistopheles that, unless we concentrate on his deep, sagging eyes so full of world-weariness (hell-weariness?) we can forget completely who he is. It's a curious concept of the part, and not entirely a successful one.

In other roles — Bryan Hull, who has one of the best voices in the company, is a compassionate Chorus; Yusef Bulos makes a good and swaggering Waggoer, and in comic relief, Ronald Steelman is an amusing Robin.

Clyde Blakeley has the credit for lights and special effects, which means he's the firework's man. The effects are designed with imagination and executed with technical perfection.

Charles Blackburn once again achieves a sombre magnificence in costumes of the Renaissance, particularly in the robes he has designed with zodiac figures.

Consider "Dr. Faustus," then, as McCartier has done — as part of the Living Library of the Theatre to add to your collection of Plays I Wouldn't Otherwise Have Seen. Incidentally, if you plan to see the film Richard Burton has made of "Dr. Faustus," a comparison of the two productions might be interesting. We have read that the Burton film has a corrupted text; the McCartier text, aside from legitimate cuts, is honest.

—Katharine H. Bretanll

"FIGARO" NEXT . . .

. . . and Last, McCartier will bring its 1967-68 repertory season to a close with "The Marriage of Figaro," opening on Saturday, March 16, as the ninth production in the current series.

James Tripp, who appeared in several McCartier productions a few seasons ago, will be Figaro and K. Loye O'Dell of the present company, will be his master, the Count Almaviva. A guest actress, Jane Cronin, will be the Countess Almaviva and Susan Kaslow will be Figaro's betrothed, Suzanne.

Robert Moss, from the Association of Producing Artists (APA) will direct his first production for McCartier.

"The Marriage of Figaro," who wrote Beaumarchais, who wrote Figaro is known as the playwright who relaxed the theatre, after the formalized conventions of Moliere's time. He wrote colloquial dialogue and presented characters who were real, to the audiences of 18th century Paris.

"ROUGE ET NOIR" French Film Comm. The 1954 French film, "Le Rouge et le Noir," ("The Red and the Black"), adapted from Stendhal's novel, will be shown at McCartier next Tuesday at 8 as the next "Classic Film" in that series.

ALBEE DRAMA STAGED

By Community Players. One reacts to the Princeton Community Players' production of "A Delicate Balance," which resumes this Friday and Saturday at the John Witherspoon School auditorium, like a dinner guest who has been lavished an elegantly-served, skillfully prepared meal which consists of food for which he has no taste.

Edward Albee's domestic drama has been intelligently directed by Shirley Kaufman and is skillfully played by the cast, but the work on which this expertise has been lavished seems unworthy of it.

In such regrettable situations, judgment must compromise. The Players are to be commended for mounting a professional production and for offering Princetonians the rare opportunity to see contemporary drama at home, but they are to be taken to task for their choice of play.

Drama of course can be judged more objectively than food, and by almost any objective criteria, "A Delicate Balance" is a bad play.

Credibility Gap. Its scene is a middle class home, and the drama—what there is of it—is catalyzed by the simultaneous arrival of the daughter (feeling from the ruin of her former marriage and a couple seeking refuge from some amorphous fear).

While very little "hoppens" in the play, its analysis of the characters' weakness and impotence; their attempts to help themselves, to arrive at some modus vivendi or "delicate balance" and their urges to destroy each other might have been very interesting and their despair might have been affecting, if they were in any way believable.

But Albee does not endow them with anything more than the most superficial characteristics, and his drama gives them no direction. The dis-logue is grotesquely artificial, and the characters appear to interact on a purely verbal level. The constant repartees, jokes and puns lead the play nowhere.

Of all the performers, Marion Brooks as the mother has the most trouble because she has to speak lines such as,
"We manufacture such a portion of our own despair." Such banal poetry evidently passed for poetic banality when the Pulitzer Prizes were handed out last year.

Gail Simmons Strong. As the daughter, Gail Simmons, whose lines are less extravagantly baroque, does much better at infusing some kind of dramatic life into her character. Her powerful projections of Claire's disturbance and tension is one of the major successes of the production.

Herbert McNary as the father and Sylvia Fontijn as his sister-in-law perform very well. Henry Siegle and Natalie Rosenthal are both amusing and sympathetic as the frightened friends.

Mrs. Kaufman has done a good job of holding the play together. She has chosen not to minimize some of the humor, but the text gives no indication that she lost anything in doing so.

IT'S NEW To Us

HERE'S SPRING...

With a Suit. We hope your spring suit will be one of the knit ensembles at Stacy's, but if you'd rather wear a mipped — waist dress with bell-bow jacket, that's all right, too.

These ensembles have a dress, usually sleeveless, and a matching coat. The knitting has been done in Italy and in Hong Kong and prices vary accordingly, although style remains high.

Here's one in creamy white (a new color of white this year) with gold buttons. A friend, in white, has narrow bands of "gold" all around dress and coat from top to bottom, and a companion wears a knit in those great big stitches, inter-knit with gold.

Deep orange goes over a very dark brown dress in a startling switch of the seasons but who said you couldn't wear brown for spring?

Lots of the pants suits at Stacy's are knit, too. We found a spring green one, bright as a new leaf, and a dark navy with a very long jacket.

While we're with the pants suits, we might as well remind you that they come in all kinds of fabrics, including cotton. We like the silk one with bright pink pants (cooler than hot pink) and a petal-like top with overlaps of green, yellow or turquoise that make you look just like a flower.

If your wool suit is going to be woven instead of knit, Stacy suggests you wrap yourself in a cape. Its sleeveless dress is light grey with panels of white wool down each side. The cape is nicely flaring, with plenty of body — it doesn't hang in folds.

Another grey dress has a matching coat, snugly lined for cool spring breezes. Wonderful — wear with other dresses, especially bright ones.

That nipped-waisted dress we mentioned earlier is tropic lime with a wide, tight belt, slightly gathered skirt and a jacket which just reaches the waist.

Another cape suit has the cape cut short. This one has a navy skirt and short navy cape. The long sleeves of the red-white-blue knit blouse come through the slits and provide nice contrast. The blouse, unexpectedly for something so tailored, ties at the neck in a soft bow.

Blouses — ah, they are soft! "Feminine" is a built-in word this spring, and at Stacy's it shows on beige crepe blouses with the spaniel-ear bows of a 1930's neckline. Cuffs are very deep — on one cotton smock, in fact, the cuff is almost six inches. On blouses, they are more restrained, but still dramatically high.

Lined sheer blouses, like cotton voile, have prints wider or than a March wind. And some of the widest are black-brown-beige.

We're not sure what accessories you plan on, but Stacy is sure you'll want to wear a dash of safari hat and very, very wet vinyl boots in colors like hot apricot, cool royal, white.

And did we say "feminine"? Here's Stacy's spring greeting: a navy wool dress with little ruffles at neckline, big white ruffles at the wrist.

WUFFLES

All Aboard. If you're not the wuffy type, all you can do this spring — pardon, spring — is hibernate until the sugar dissolves.

We're at Edith's at the moment, wishing we were twenty-two with eyes of blue: the robe we'd like to wear is floor length white eyelet over white, with a pale blue satin sash, worn peignoir style, and an eyelet ruffle all around every edge. Maybe on the inside seams, for all we know. It also comes, the robe does, in white lace over pale blue nylon georgette, and the ruffle is lace instead of eyelet.

Then we find a sleeveless short gown made like a white shirt, with a lace bib and lace around the armholes.

A short dacon-cotton gown and robe set ($18) has a two-inch band of peasant embroidery going around its square neckline and making its wide shoulder-straps. The robe has puffed sleeves.

Fine blue (or red) hairlines stripe a white gown-robe set. This one has a square neckline, too, lace edged, and elbow sleeves with lace all around ($18 for the set).

Juniors respond to the feminine urge by trying on Edith's Warner collection.

Dirndl Whirl

If dirndls are back in style, what's going on underneath it all?

Edith's has the answer — a little bouffant petticoat that looks just like a shower cap. It's no more than 15 inches long, surely, and very full with a flouncy ruffle all around the bottom.

Edith shows it in white with broad white satin ribbons to restrain all those gathers. Shades of the '50s!

Pink (aqua, white) tricot has been used for a lace edged minislip, bikini and bra. There is even a pink bow here and there. It comes in a Swiss Alpine floral, too, pink or blue or yellow.

Olga dresses up a girld with lace around the bottoms of the legs. It's what Edith calls a "short-leg long-leg," meaning it's a classic long-leg girdle style, cut short to wear under short dresses. Vasarette makes the same kind of garment, in a luxurious "gardania" white with elegant appliques of ecra lace. (Bra matches).

Olga's new bra comes with or without contour padding. In either version, it has very narrow side panels.

A bra-slip (buy it in bra sizes) is minislip length in white or beige, $7. And a hot time nylon georgette minislip has that white lace edging. A tailored slip has a zipper at the side to hold it close, and there is a stern renunciation of lace.

Travelers will want Edith's

AN ECHO OF PARIS: Scott Nye, as the Shell-Shocked soldier of World War I, pauses in the park with the Rag-Picker's daughter (Kim Fowner) who befriends him. Both are in "Echos of Paris," to be danced by the Aparri Ballet at Murray Theatre this Friday and Saturday. (Members of LaCercle Francals will see a special preview this Thursday).

The only aspect of the production which deserves strong criticism is Dirck Dimock's set, which is tasteless. It is difficult to tell whether it is a reflection of some aspect of the play or of a shortage of construction materials.

FESTIVAL TO OPEN

With Aparri Dancers, Mila Gibbons' ballet, "Echos of Paris," to music by Poulenc, the "Fairy Variations" from "Sleeping Beauty," with music by Tchaikovsky and "A Naughty Scene from Courteline," with a script in French, will be on the program this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 when the Princeton Ballet Festival '68 opens in Murray Theatre.

The Festival is sponsored by the Aparri dance studio, and the weekend performances will benefit the University's under-graduate Theatre Intime.

On four successive Sundays, starting this Sunday, the Festival will continue in the Aparri studios, 217 Nassau Street, with programs of modern dance, an exhibition of dance notation and concerts of unpublished music written for the dance.

The naughtily scene in French will be given by Frederic O'Brady, the actors-director-lecturer, and his wife, Colette, former star of the Folies Bergeres.

New choreography for Miss Gibbons' "Echos of Paris" has been done for this production by Margaret and Roland Guerard, formerly of the Ballets Russes of Monte Carlo. The "Fairy Variations" have been reproduced by Henry Danton from the original choreography of Petipa. Mr. Danton, formerly with the Sadlers Wells (Royal) Ballet, is now on the faculty of the School of Law and the Aparri Studio.

Dancers from throughout the state, chosen by audition, will perform the Jooss-Laban Scales of Movement at the Aparri Studio at 4 p.m. on the Sunday afternoons of March. The Scales will be followed in the Sunday presentations, by the Dance of the Jooss-Laban Scales of Movement at the basis for Labanotation, a dance notation similar to the musician's score.

An exhibition of Labanotation, lent by the Dance Notation Bureau, will be on display at the Aparri Studio.

 set, consisting of short frog-closed robe in pink or green Roman stripes. The gown could almost be worn as a dress, cut as it is with conservative neckline, gathers at the bosom and no sleeves. This is a no-wrinkle fabric, by the way.

For ladies who like dignity and elegance in sleepwear, Edith has a long gown of opaque tulle so full it must be at least two circles around — a splendid, swirling garment with deep U-neckline front and back and spaghetti straps. It is palest blue or white, and has lace around the arm band.

A similar gown ($12) has spaghetti straps, too, but no lace trim. It comes in a clean, definitive but not shocking, pink.

Short gowns flow and float, too. Here's a permanently pleated one in mint green with sheer lace, and that very full tulle with diagonal stripes of mint or yellow mixed with white. It's baby-doll or short length.

A BOOT FOR A BOTTLE
 Elegant Gilt-Wrap. Lavishly decorated velvet and satin boots, just the size of a quart of fine Scotch, make exciting gift-wraps, and no worry about shoe size, either.

Princeton Gift, on Palmer Square, has these hand-sewn lovelies — six different high-heeled styles at $15 each. They have been designed with imagination and made with the most exquisite workmanship.

They are also speedied enough to leave around long after the last drop.

"House of Tudor," for a start, is made of deep bronze brocade embellished with red satin rosettes and edged with a deep Elizabethan ruff of red satin. The wide handle (arch boot has a hanging handle) is encrusted with gold and silver braid.

For the "Zhivago" boot, the designer has used dark red velvet trimmed with gold rope and edged at boot-top with grey fur. "Huzzar" is bright red velvet, matched with ivory satin and spurred at the heel with a rosette of gold, black and white.

If it's a bottle of champagne for a lady, choose "Miss Doo Little," a delicious boot in white satin heel, a mauve organza ruffle and a big blue rose at the calf.

"Victoriana" is another lady-like one, fashioned of brown satin with a V-neck of black lace edged with purple ball fringe.

"Versailles," sixth in the collection, is a confection of turquoise velvet and white lace.

Of course, the boot can be filled with candy, if you prefer, or even with diamonds. Each one is padded for maximum security.

News Of The Theatres

 er of "Ensemble Six," has had several verse dramas produced in Trenton and Princeton. His "Jezebel" was performed in the State Museum Auditorium last May.

"Orpheus," directed by Bernard Miller, will feature Jon Lettrair, Mark Mulhern, Sydel Pittas, Marie Miller, Bernard Miller and Denise. Darglen and Darglen. Marie Miller has designed the costumes, and John Sappington is the set designer.

"Phaedra," directed by R. Edward Townley, has in its cast Lois Cohen, Eric Von Stark, Tom Durand and Renee Stein. Settings are by Eva Kaplan. Music for both plays is by Richard Kleusch, Clyde and June Tipton and Thomas Uchtmann.

Playhouse, Prince, Lincoln
The Graduate (held over)
 The Mike Nichols-directed comedy about a youth's coming of age continues to set box office records at the above theatres. Anne Bancroft is excellent as middle-aged sex poet; Katherine Ross plays her beautiful daughter, and Dustin Hoffman is the slightly drop-catch hero. Scenes (or sketches) often hilarious; dialogue sharp and funny. (Previously reviewed.)

GARDEN AND BRUNSWICK
Live For Life (now playing)
 Once again, French director-photographer Claude Lelouch has concentrated his talents and camera on a man and the women in his life. This comes off well, but he has also attempted to take in a number of other items such as African animals, mercenaries fighting in Africa, American highway casualties in Vietnam (replete with gaping wounds and flowing blood).
 The film is an impressive follow-up to Lelouch's "A Man and A Woman," and the quar-relies only in his attempt to squeeze in so many items. He could, with little effort, have made a love story feature and a separate short film on the activities of a French TV reporter.

Yves Montand as the reporter who has become bored with marriage does a fine restrained acting job. Candice Bergen is enchanting as the impulsive American girl unsure of how to handle the situation. And Anne Girardot as Montand's wife is no less than magnificent.

Lelouch photographed the film himself, shooting in color in Paris, Africa, New York, Vietnam, Amsterdam and the Alps. If you think you have seen these places on film before, take a look at the way Lelouch sees them, because it's not the same.

HOPEWELL FIRE: Firemen from Hopewell and Pennington battled a stubborn, smoky blaze Monday afternoon on Seminary Avenue in Hopewell. The Hopewell Motor Hotel building was extensively damaged by the flames, smoke and water, and a new automobile, parked in an adjacent shed, was virtually destroyed. The car was owned by Mrs. Rose Mar of the Hopewell Valley Inn. Later Monday afternoon, Hopewell and Pennington fire-fighters were joined by four other departments in quelling a field fire that consumed several hundred acres near the Hopewell Valley Golf Course. Topics Of The Town
March 26, at the 92-A by-pass hearing in Kingston. The Township approves the general 11 1/2 percent. Committee member John Wallace said that South Brunswick, previously opposed, is now apparently in agreement, also.
Mayor Carl G. Schafer announced that property owners affected by 92-A can send their desires or protests by mail to the Department of Transportation. Personal appearance at the hearing is not required, according to information sent to Mayor Schafer by the Department.
The meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the Kingston Firehouse.

Committee will consider a new 25 m.p.h. speed limit the length of Valley Road, recommended by the state after recent surveys. The Valley Road School zone would remain 25 during school hours. At present, Valley Road is a mixture of 25 and 30 m.p.h.

Two Valley Road property owners, Henry J. Frank and Mrs. Helen Fairbanks, protested to Committee 11-A a Suburban Transit buses have been using Valley Road in violation of Suburban's franchise. Committee asked Mr. Nini to write the company and request its officers of the franchise provisions.

The Traffic Safety Committee would like to widen Linden Lane in the Township from present 29 feet to 30 feet, and buy sidewalks on the west side from Franklin Avenue to Gayet. Committee will consider this, too.

In and Out. John McPhee, Drakes Corner Road, has been named to the Open Space Commission in place of Mrs. Stanley Smoyer, who has resigned. William Marvel notified Committee that he is resigning as a trustee of the Princeton Public Library because of his election last month to the Princeton Regional School Board. He told Committee that he believed his new responsibilities would take up time he has been giving to the library.

Julie Huntley, 213 Birch, was a 60-bidder with $11,000 for the Township's five municipal garbage collection districts. The other bidder, Princeton District 185, bid $15,000. The Township, the incumbent, won the job last year with a $10,300 bid.

PLAYING AIDS SOUGHT
The Recreation Commission, Princeton Recreation Department is seeking bids for two landscaping projects at its Community Park complex.
One is for the planting of 300 aspen plants along a 100-foot stretch adjacent to the tennis courts that would act as a wind screen. One of the few problems reported by players using the courts last year in their first season of operation was the wind blowing across Community Park field.

YOUTH IS ARRESTED
For Alcohol Possession, William Vandermark, 18, 742 Mount Lucas Road, was arrested in his parked car on Nassau Street Monday night by Borough Pl. Ronald Hight, who charged him with possession of alcohol as a minor.

Vandermark was released in $25 bail, pending a hearing Monday in Borough Court. A juvenile boy in Vandermark's company was also apprehended. His case, police said, will be handled by juvenile authorities.

BIRTHS
16 Born, 2 on Feb. 29. Six girls and 10 boys, including two on Feb. 29, were born last week at Princeton Hospital.
Parents of the Feb. 29 boys were Mr. and Mrs. Roe Allen Jr., 220-B Eisenhower Drive and Mr. and Mrs. George Mayer, 4 Vine Street, Jamesburg.

Girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scheiner, 48 Murray Place, February 25; Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Collard, 31 Pine Knoll Drive, Trenton, February 26; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Murphy, A 8 Lawrence Apartments, February 27; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kurck, 2-A Deerfield Park Apartments, Hightstown, February 28; Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Kapalski, Route 27, Princeton, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schannel, 161 Texas Avenue, Trenton, both on March 1.

Boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Quinn, 405-B Devereux Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. James Connolly, 11 Stillwell Road, both on March 1.

A second bid will be for the removing and replanting of 200 trees and flowering shrubs along Route 206 to serve as a screen between the park and the highway. The plans were made available to the Commission at no cost by Princeton University when it abandoned its nursery located at Washington and Faculty Roads.

At one time, the Commission was considering removing as many as 310 trees from the University nursery, many of which were unusual, arboretum type plantings.

In other business at its monthly meeting last week, the Recreation Commission appointed R. Donald Barr to serve as executive director for another year. Mr. Barr, who came here in December, 1964, has served the Commission in that capacity since its inception.

John Conroy, Princeton University, was named chairman of the Recreation Board. Robert Sinker was named vice-chairman.

HEARINGS POSTPONED
On Pipeline. The hearing on Transcontinental Pipeline's plan for expansion in Princeton Township, has been adjourned until April 8 and 9 at the request of Township attorney Gordon Griffin.

The hearing requested the "continuation" so that he can assemble experts and information on the question of safe passage of Transco blasts out its proposed new 42-inch line next to the present 30-inch line that runs through the northern part of the Township.

The first session of the hearing before the Public Utility Commission was held in Trenton on Monday. The P.U.C. heard Transco's witnesses, and also heard from Harold Huber, 71 Woodland Drive, who stated that he lived within the 100 foot legal limit, but had never received from Transco a notice of the hearing.

Under the law, the company must "notice" property owners whose house is within 100 feet of the center of the line. Later Monday, Transco surveyors visited the Kuhn property and found the house 60 feet from the line.

At Township Committee Monday night, Roland Berg, 108 Highland Drive, reported that a pipeline visit he had made to Washington, D.C. last week. Berg said he had conferred with Representative Frank Thompson, and had given him certain engineering information on the pipeline which Congressman Thompson said he would forward to the Newark office of the P.U.C.

THREE ARE ARRESTED
For Loitering on Nassau St. A 16-year-old youth and two juvenile boys, 17 and 15, all Princeton residents, were arrested by Pl. Bernard Schmitt, Monday afternoon for loitering.

Peter Pyne, 18, 39 Humbert Street, was released on $25 bail to await a hearing in Borough Court. The two juveniles were referred to juvenile authorities.

They were arrested at 4:45 for allegedly loitering and obstructing passage of pedestrians on Nassau between Palmer Square and Witherspoon Street. Lt. Michael Carnevali reported that the three were arrested under the state's disorderly persons law and not the new Borough and loitering ordinance passed last year.

FILM-FLAMERS ARRESTED
By Township Police. Suspicions of a Princeton resident combined with quick action by Township Police Monday resulted in the apprehension of two long-time women film artists.

Arrested at the Shopping Center Mall by Detective Norman Smith was Mrs. Yvette M. Wilson, 29, of New York City. Her companion, Norma Jordan, 27, of the Bronx, was arrested shortly afterwards by Pl. David Potts on the corner of Nassau and Pine Street.

The pair were turned over to the Carteret police who had a detainer out for them for film flaming a young Highway 95 of her $274 diamond ring. The victim, Mary Reid, came to Princeton with two Rahway detectives, and identified the two suspects.

No charges were made by the Township police.

Township Detective Frank Bocanuso reported the police were put on their trail as a result of the Princeton woman who told the police that she had been approached around noon Monday by one of the women who was shopping in Bamberger's.

The woman told her she had an envelope with a lot of money in it and asked where the Post Office was so she could deposit it in postal savings. Soon after a second woman joined in.

ANTIQUES SHOW PLANNED
By Wellesley Club. The Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey will sponsor an antiques show, to be held March 29 through 31 at the Princeton Day School.

The theme of this year's show will be "Antiques and Story." Exhibits are planned from 25 dealers, including specialists in silver, pewter, grandfather clocks, decorative books and prints, early American primitives, jewelry, and furniture.

In one exhibit based on the current, a dealer will show a puppet machine user and a fortune teller's sign of the zodiac, both used by Ringling Brothers. Other interesting pieces include an elaborate hand-carved chest dated 1650, but thoughtfully made after 1850, and a stained glass fireplace screen.

Local collectors will also speak on their hobbies as part of the show. Jack K. Rimolover will discuss his collection of early American historical flasks, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Michael will speak on American cut glass of the 18th and 19th centuries.

William Owens will trace the development of English furniture from Queen Anne through the Shakerian period. In the final presentation, Mrs. Barbara Johnson will discuss antiques from the whaling industry, drawing from a collection of scrimshaw including teeth, canes, clothes pins, and rolling pins.

Admission to the show is $1.50. It will be held from noon until 10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, March 29 and 30, and on Saturday, it will open from noon until 6 p.m. Lunch and refreshments will be served.

RUNNING DOGS PROBLEM

In Moore Street Area. Borough police have issued a plea to dog owners not to let their dogs run loose in the morning when children are on their way to school.

Det. Michael Carnevale reported that there have been several incidents of loose dogs last week in the Moore Street area and that on one occasion a child was bitten. "This is a plea to responsible people to confine their dogs which are molesting young children on their way to school," he said.

ANTIQUES FOR WELLESLEY: William Owens (right) will speak at the Wellesley Club Antiques Show on "18th-century Furniture Styles." Here, with Mrs. James Beck, chairman of the show, he examines a Chinese rose medallion pendant. The antiques show will be held March 29, 30, 31 and 22, an ordinance requiring dogs to be leashed at any time except when females are "in heat." "I would say we have a very liberal dog ordinance," commented Lt. Carnevale. "In almost any other community I've gone to, dogs are not allowed to run loose."

SEVEN ARE FINED
In Borough Court. Seven Princeton area motorists were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. Five were fined $12 each. They are Cheryl R. Larsen, 27, 362 Forest Avenue; Frank A. Buccanino Jr., 27, 32 Oakland Road; Elizabeth H. Graydon, 47, Station Road, Cranbury; William E. Carver, 27, 21 Mt. Pleasant; and Peter W. Riefeault, 22, of the Graduate School, driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Paul N. Hernao, 37, 21 E. Franklin Avenue, Pennington, paid $18 for speeding, and Philip T. Guza, 21, of the Graduate School, paid $15 for passing in an intersection.

Five traffic charges against Jerome E. McGowan, 19, of Greenwood Avenue, were adjourned for one week to enable Mr. McGowan to obtain an attorney.

TRAVEL OFFICE ENTERED
And Architect's Office. The American Express Travel Agency and the office of architect Barton F. Weisbecker, both located at 10 Nassau Street, were entered and ransacked Monday night. Nothing is known as to the missing from either office, police said.

Entry was made by forcing a ground floor window on the east side of the building. Desks and filing cabinets were forced open with a crowbar and their contents strewn about. They were later dusted for fingerprints, police said.

Detective Robert McAnavia, Detective Charles Harris and Sgt. Robert J. Anderson are conducting the investigation. The entries were reported at 7:45 Tuesday morning.

GIRL, 17, IS CHARGED
With LSD Possession. A 17-year-old Princeton High School girl has been charged with possession and use without the prescription of a licensed physician of LSD. Township juvenile officer Walter Ezzano reported she has been turned over to juvenile authorities for a hearing.

The girl, a senior at PHHS, was picked up at 4:33 a.m. on February 25 by Sgt. Michael Lisi after police were called by the owner of the home in which she had been visiting. Police described the girl as "very excited" when they arrived.

She had purchased the drug earlier in the day, according to police. Two friends, with her at the time of her arrest, a boy and a girl, had not taken the drug, police said.

She was taken to Princeton Hospital where she was after for municipal services. It further agreed that if the building were put to another use it would continue the tax payments.

The University was unhappy about the continuation of the payments. Pointing out that the University considers the building to be part of the campus, Frank Reiche, attorney for the university said, "We question the legality of the board to impose such a condition."

"In effect," he said, "This is a revenue-producing measure involved in zoning. It is not the University's business status the University has as an educational institution."

"This is not to say," he added, "that the University does not feel a responsibility when a property is removed from the tax lists."

He reported no decision has been made by the University whether it will appeal the zoning board's ruling. It has 45 days to do so.

As a private corporation, the Court Club, the former occupant, had to pay taxes to the Borough. The Alumni Council is moving into the Dean's House on Campus. The new eating and recreational facility would be known as Stevenson Hall.

Yes To 30 Mercer. In a second case, Jeremiah Ford III, owner of a rooming house at 30-32 Mercer Street, in which his family lives, was given permission to change the building from one family and 30 roomers to a two-story family residence and six roomers. Mr. Ford had wanted to retain 10 roomers.

The board further ruled that its approval must be renewed every two years. Mr. Ford also was given the green light to add a rear, glass-enclosed

ZONERS ATTACH STRING
To University Request. In agreeing unconditionally last week to Princeton University's request for a special permit to change its Alumni Council building at 91 Prospect Avenue into a University-owned and operated eating and recreational facility for undergraduate students who have not joined private eating clubs, the Borough Zoning Board attached one condition: that the University continue to abide by an agreement it entered into with the Borough in October, 1964, when the building, then the location of the Court Club, changed hands.

At that time, the University agreed to pay the Borough the municipal portion of taxes—excluding school and state taxes

YM-YWCA Building Fund

THE HEALTH CLUB — THE EXECUTIVE CLUB — AND THE "Y"

March 4, 1968

Fellow members of our community:

At this moment — when we are looking forward to creating new recreational and social facilities for thousands of YMCA and YWCA members in the Princeton area — suppose we ask ourselves a very important question:

"Who will use these facilities? Can all citizens of our community hope to enjoy the privilege of membership in an enlarged and improved 'Y'?"

There can be only one answer. The basic concern of the Y is for the individual — his physical and spiritual growth and development. So the Y must serve all the people in order to fulfill its purpose in our community.

The Y draws its chief support from regular membership fees. These fees remain low because the YM and YW organizations operate largely through volunteer effort. Still it costs more to belong to the Y today than it did years ago when facilities consisted only of unoccupied rooms in old offices or public buildings. Looking ahead to the day when we will have a splendid new gymnasium, larger activities rooms and nursery space, we can presume that membership fees will increase — even though the number of paying members will increase when the gym and other new facilities are added. This is exactly what happened in 1961, just after the swimming pool was opened. Membership rose sharply from 2,633 to 4,015. Present membership is more than 6,700.

The YM is also supported by the Executive Club, whose annual dues go into a fund to provide memberships for those citizens of our community who cannot pay for the benefits they receive. The phrase "investment spending in the future of the Princeton area" describes the purpose of the Executive Club.

For the past four years the YM has studied the advisability of forming a Health Club as a source of further income — as well as a means of health and recreation for men who can afford an annual fee of $175 (charter memberships are now available at $150). This Health Club, not part of this building fund campaign, is designed to be the finest facility of its kind in Central New Jersey. Already, more than fifty men have signed up and paid the membership fee, even at a time when the major effort of the Y is devoted to the Building Fund and not to forming the Health Club. As for the men who have joined or are about to join the new Health Club, they are leaders in our community. When such men become involved in the life of the Y, they present a primary source of leadership for the Y to draw upon. Many of these men and their families will become increasingly interested in the Y — and will contribute their time and effort on a voluntary basis. There is no doubt that this club will be an important asset for our Y as it is for the communities we studied — including Montclair, New Brunswick, Trenton and Newark. And our careful study of costs vs. income convinces us that the Health Club will help defray the cost of operating the building.

To the citizens of this area who are contributing their time and money to the Y — and to all who are considering donations to the Building Fund — your YM-YWCA officers and directors pledge to continue the policy of extending services to boys, girls, men and women who want to participate in Y activities. The Y program is a community effort. The result must be a total community benefit.

Sincerely yours,

Ralph Mason
General Chairman

porch and six feet onto a 30-by-16-foot garage in the rear.

The house is in violation of lot coverage, side yard, front yard, and height requirements. Mr. Ford, an architect, told the board he felt his request would "bring the house more in line with neighboring houses." The necessary variances were granted.

Several letters from neighbors supporting the Ford requests were read to the board. In one, Mrs. Frederick O. Mercer wrote: "Considering the nuisance and embarrassment of 30-32 Mercer over recent years, we were overjoyed when the Fords bought the home. We support him wholeheartedly."

In a final application, the Princeton YM-YWCA was given a special permit to erect a six-by-eight-foot brick simulated wooden sign to announce its building fund program. Permission for the sign, which would stand in front of the Y Building at Bayard Lane and Avalon Place, was limited to 60 days.

He is currently free on $5,000 bond pending a series of appeals that eventually will probably reach the Supreme Court. He was dropped of his world heavyweight boxing title after his conviction.

TO DISCUSS RIOTS: A public forum on civic disorder will be presented in Princeton by the American Civil Liberties Union on March 14. Participants will include (left to right) Sheldon Hackney, president of the Mercer County chapter of the A.C.L.U.; Robert M. Worcester, of Opinion Research Corporation, which conducted surveys in Newark on last summer's riots and Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson, who will moderate the forum.

Parents are urged to register their children at the school which they will attend.

FORUM SCHEDULED

On Newark Riot. A public forum entitled "Blueprint for Action: The Report of the Governor's Select Commission on Civic Disorder," has been scheduled for 8 p.m., Thursday, March 14 at the Woodrow Wilson School.

Participants in the program will be Thomas B. Hartmann, assistant to the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs in Trenton, and Robert M. Worcester, controller and assistant secretary/treasurer for Opinion Research Corporation. Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson will serve as moderator. The forum has been organized by the Mercer County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

A member of the board of trustees of the American Civil Liberties Union, Mr. Worcester will report on last summer's riot in Newark. Mr. Hartmann, who will shortly join the Urban Studies center of Rutgers University as an urban studies specialist, will discuss the commission's report and its recommendations—especially those affecting Mercer County. He was an assistant to the commission in its investigations.

Dr. Sheldon Hackney, president of the Mercer County A.C.L.U., an assistant professor of history at Princeton is coordinating the forum. Publicity will be handled by Irwin M. Critt, a director and public relations chairman of the Mercer County A.C.L.U. Mr. Crittman is a member of the technical staff of RCA Laboratories.

The forum is co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters, Princeton Association for Human Rights, the Rotary Club, the YM-YWCA, and the Social Concerns Committee of the Unitarian Church.

GROWTH IN PRINCETON? How? "This study gives us all the problems but very few of the answers," observed Mayor Henry S. Patterson Tuesday night as the Borough Planning Board turned the 37 pages of the Larry Smith & Co., "economic feasibility study" of the Master Plan proposals on the business area.

Half a dozen businessmen had been invited to express their opinions of the report, and two broad areas of opinion came to focus in the 90-minute session:

• "Controlled development" of the business area should be encouraged. This might be done, suggested Fred Blaicher, president of Palmer Square Inc., by establishing a floor area-ratio of 1.5 (the floor space of a building one and one-half times the area of its lot). Present ratio is 3 times) and allowing buildings six stories high. Owners of small properties could replace their aging buildings for the same area without having to provide additional parking.

• "Don't change the town." Planning Board member John B. Redding Jr., said, "I don't go along with high rise," and he added "I don't think we have to change Princeton to make it survive; just give us more parking up and more parking downtown."

The Smith report, says that adequate parking "will probably be the overriding factor which limits the growth of Princeton's business district."

Municipal parking garages, the report continues, would allow the Borough to control traffic patterns by strategic location of the garages.

Ralph Mather, president of the First National Bank, warned the board that "in five or ten years, there may be empty stores on Nassau Street because there is no place to park. Parking is the most important thing in our economy."

More Offices? The Smith report also says that the office space potential in Princeton's core area is "substantial" and could be doubled within six years. (A representative of Raymond & May, Borough planning consultants, said office space could be quadrupled, which would be "astounding" in terms of traffic.)

To meet the demand for more office and store space, the report says, Princeton would need 1,760 more parking stalls. They could be housed in a three-story building covering

WE DO!

"The accident took place at 3 in the afternoon under clear, sunny skies. The roadway was dry and arrow straight where the collision occurred."

— TOWN TOPICS, 2/22/68

It is widely accepted that life is a gamble in which chance plays a significant role. Some even say that nothing in life is certain, that every action involves many inescapable risks which separate success from failure, wisdom from folly—and even life from death.

We do know that the business of driving is a gamble. We bet our lives every time we drive or are passengers in a car. In this aspect of life, it appears that the betting is rigged.

It staggers the mind to speculate on the frightful toll of the accident reported and pictured above which took the life of a Princeton teacher. The cause is not yet known, but the aftermath spreads havoc in widening circles—a shattered young family—children growing without their father's guidance—radically altered financial means in the years ahead—two women, the widow, and the driver of the other car, affected for life—a whole roster of disadvantaged children at the school.

Every year, car manufacturers install additional safety features. Super-highways, engineered for safety, stretch increasingly across the country. Defensive driving is stressed as never before. Yet the American driver should gain no satisfaction from the documented fact that of every five accidents, he causes four.

Take care. We care!

PROFILE

What is a policeman made of? He, of all men, is at once the most needed and the most unwanted.

He's a strangely nameless creature who is "sir" to his face and "fuzz" behind his back.

He must be such a diplomat that he can settle differences between individuals so that each will think he won.

But...

If the policeman is neat, he's conceited; if he's careless, he's a bum.

If he's pleasant, he's a flirt; if he's not, he's a grouch.

He must make in an instant decisions which would require months for a lawyer.

But...

If he hurries, he's careless; if he's deliberate, he's lazy.

He must be first to an accident and infallible with a diagnosis.

He must be able to start breathing, stop bleeding, tie splints and, above all, be sure the victim goes home without a limp.

Or expect to be sued.

The Police officer must know every gun, draw on the run, and hit where it doesn't hurt.

He must be able to whip two men half his size and half his age without damaging his uniform and without being "brutal."

If you hit him, he's a coward; if he hits you, he's a bully.

A policeman must know everything — and not tell.

He must know where all the sin is — and not partake.

The policeman must, from a single human hair, be able to describe the crime, the weapon and the criminal — and tell you where the criminal is hiding.

But...

If he catches the criminal, he's lucky; if he doesn't, he's a dunce.

If he gets promoted, he has political pull; if he doesn't, he's a dullard.

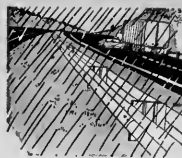

The policeman must chase bum leads to a dead end, stake out 10 nights to tag one witness who saw it happen — but refuses to remember.

The policeman must be a minister, a social worker, a diplomat, a tough guy and a gentleman.

Culled statistics wave the fan over the stinkers, underscore instances of dishonesty and brutality because they are "news." What that really means is that they are exceptional, unusual, not commonplace.

Buried under the froth is the fact: less than 1/2 of 1% of policemen misfit that uniform.

— Paul Harvey
Radio Commentator

If you are a truck driver, the law says you have to carry fire extinguishers and emergency road lights.

As a car driver, you have freedom of choice. How about your car? Could YOU handle a sudden flame under your hood?

Could a simple rear-end collision — just hard enough to crack open a gas tank — leave you uninjured but helpless to save your car when the first small flame starts?

And on an unlighted highway, if you are stopped with breakdown — do you think the flashing lights on the back of your car are REALLY enough protection?

You bet your life when you drive your car on today's busy roads. Luck plays a significant role in this gamble, it is true. But common sense precautions are more reliable. The cost is low.

YOUR PROTECTION

Children need your protection.

- Know the length of time it takes your child to walk to and from school.

- Immediately check into any delay in arrival home.

- Know the safest route to and from school and instruct your children to follow that route.

- If your children are to arrive home after dark, arrange to meet them.

- Know your children's playmates and where they congregate.

- Instruct your youngster to report to you suspicious persons or attempts by unknown adults to approach them or become friendly with them. Warn them against accepting rides or gifts from anyone without your approval. Train the children to check with you before going anywhere with anyone.

- Be sure your baby sitter is a responsible person and capable of acting in an emergency.

- Report suspicious actions of adults in the vicinity of school yards and playgrounds.

Children NEED your protection.

5.3 acres at a cost of $4 million-plus.

If you solve the parking problem like this, what kind of town do you have left? Mayor Patterson asked.

Ridgely Cook, president of Edmund Cook and Company, the real estate firm, said he thought Princeton's future is as "an office town" of research and "egghead" firms, not as a town of big retail department stores.

Mayor Patterson disagreed with Cook and said that the Planning Board isn't eager to see the Borough expand into an area of large commercial centers.

Tax Relief? Mr. Blatcher said his proposal for relaxed building restrictions would bring more commercial rates.

He said the community could relieve the tax burden of the residential property owner.

"I don't think more rateables are the avenue toward tax reduction," observed Borough Councilman Charles Cornforth.

He suggested that $6 million a year in new rateables would be required to accomplish any such reduction.

He advised curtailment of "expensive projects" as one way to reduce the Borough's taxes.

"YES" TO SEWER GROWTH. Borough, Township, Both of Town Monthly Meeting and Princeton's governing body, passed this week the ordinance allowing Borough and Township participation in the Quaker Joint Sewer Meeting.

This Meeting will be the organization that can apply for state and Federal funds to make studies leading toward a sub-regional sewer system for the two Princetons, Hopewell Borough, Hopewell Township, Pennington and West Windsor.

MUGGERIDGE TO SPEAK

On University Campus, British author and journalist Malcolm Muggeridge will speak Friday on "The World We Live In," in a program sponsored by the University Chapel, beginning at 8:15 p.m. in McCosh 10. The talk is open to the public without charge.

The former editor of Punch, a British humor magazine, Mr. Muggeridge quit his position as rector of Edinburgh University a month ago, as the result, he said, of a difference of opinion with students. He has criticized education as an asserted "cure-all for the ills of a godless and decomposing society."

Mr. Muggeridge graduated from Cambridge University and began a career as a writer and journalist while teaching at Egyptian University, in Cairo, in the 1920's. He has worked for several newspapers in England, and written many books and articles for American periodicals. He lives in Sussex, England.

Tax System Obsolete.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The two defeats of the school budgets at the hands of the voters of this community are not to be construed as an expression of general disapproval of the size of the budgets or of general public antipathy to wards supporting necessary increases in the costs of public education. Undoubtedly some voters did feel that the two budgets were too high, and that the costs of public education must be kept at starvation levels in order to show that intellectualism is a vain and foolish luxury, anyway. But voters with these attitudes are not numerous enough to have voted the budgets down. On the two present occasions they had help from other voters who count themselves friends of necessary expansion in the costs of public education. Let us consider these other voters for a moment.

These other voters voted against the two budgets, I believe, because, as homeowners, they are appalled at the prospect of having all necessary increases in the costs of elementary and secondary education borne in our community, in the future as in the past, by one sole tax — the tax on real property. The average homeowner in the borough has seen his real property tax increase in the 20-year period from 1946 to 1966 by 200%.

Meanwhile, if he is a salaried worker, he has seen his salary increase in that period by perhaps 150%. Thus as he faces the prospect of retirement and of the attendant restrictions upon his future income, he sees future increases in his real property tax as a threat to his own welfare in the future. He votes against the school budgets under these circumstances in understandable enough.

What New Jersey needs is a state income tax, with the proceeds restricted by law to the support of elementary and secondary public education. Or perhaps it is necessary to increase the sales tax by two per cent, with the proceeds restricted in the same way.

One time gone on, a state income tax will have to be adopted here, and the sales tax increased, and public education the beneficiary in each case. The owner of real property will still be taxed, of course, but at a rate which does not make him a special victim of an outlandish, chaotic and obsolete tax system.

WILBUR S. HOWELL

20 Armour Road

The Source of the Trouble.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
It was disheartening to attend last week's school budget hearing without having one word directed to the real villain of the piece and the reason for our unbearably high property taxes.

This, of course, is New Jersey's antiquated tax structure, which makes us among the last of the 50 States in proportion of money devoted to public education and makes the cost of local property taxes punisshingly high in any town where quality education is desired.

The only logical answer, it seems to me, is a State graduated income tax. In real terms this means that a man who pays on what he is earning now, not on a house he may have bought 20 years ago but could not afford to buy today at local prices.

Why don't we all go out and fight for this instead of trying each year to cut bits of fat, or supposed fat, from a school budget that can never, under the present tax setup, be cut enough to really help the property owner of moderate means without severely injuring our children's education?

ESSIE L. KUHN
(Mrs. Harold Kuhn)
74 Woodland Drive

Culture by Coercion.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
In case there are still some well-meaning and enthusiastic educators left who believe in offering theatre performances to widely unprepared and indifferent children, and claim, not only that the custom has a cultural impact, but also that it arouses interest in the theatre among the youngsters — I have a chilling eye opener to submit.

Ever since I first saw the buses bring TV-and movie-fed children to the McCarter at fantastically chosen morning hours to attend performances of plays by Shakespeare, Beckett, Strindberg to Miller — I had my doubts as to the value of such a quixotic sacrifice.

To begin with, it is neither an introduction to drama nor a hint of what a theatrical experience can be, to make a child sit out a classic or a modern play in which every allusion and motive is totally wasted on him, and when the only attraction in the experience is its being free. Let us miss school that morning. It is supposed to take place in the name of Culture, an awe-some word that every heavy child must hate today, or ignore its meaning as I do myself in the silly conceits.

Experts of the ritual explained to me that there was no other way of getting them to the theatre at all; that he suggested to leave the little darlings alone since they are quite happy with TV and ball games, arms flew up both in horror and in the name of Culture.

Many, many years ago the theatre was the only spectacular entertainment in the world, and children either got into contact with it or not. It did not matter. For numerous reasons today the theatre does not enter the lives of children; and to watch "Hamlet," not to mention "A Raisin in the Sun," would need months of dreary preparation which they are unlikely to get.

If they really liked it, they could spontaneously go to see a show on an institutionally fixed afternoon — and as it happens everywhere else in the world.

It is time to tell organizers of these, for actors so humiliating, practices of presenting plays in the morning in the very negation of the theatre experience) that their self-congratulatory attitude in "bringing drama to the young" is within the realms of metaphysical legerdemain — in short, boloney.

Some children sit it out boldly, gaping at the strange happenings as if they were at a Japanese Noh play instead of, say, Pirandello; some throw coins and candy wrappings at the artists (yes!), and are so unruly that the actors have to stop and admonish the savage little brats from time to time. But quite a number of these innocent victims of an adult prejudice simply leave the theatre and adjourn to the campus or the University Store. A saleslady there told me it is easy to guess when these grotesque matinees are taking place at the McCarter, by the sticky little fingers on the counters. Boys occasionally bring a ball, sneak out of the theatre as soon as they can, and play on the nearby grounds until they see the buses line up in front to take the children home.

I have met pupils of Trenton High who thought a Shakespeare tragedy was sidestepping all rights, but swore never to go to a theatre again. It is preposterous to send these kids to the theatre by coercion or bribery.

My personal experience may not be conclusive, but it is perhaps enlightening. Just to get this straight and to confirm my suspicions, I am writing you. —Continued On Next Page time, at my request, arranged for a special number of our current "Misanthrope." About a dozen schools in and around Princeton were notified in time that "The Misanthrope" would be played to schoolchildren on Saturday afternoon, February 24. We knew the performance would never take place. As we expected, of course, not a single seat was booked, and anyhow the principals did not even bother to acknowledge receipt of our letter.

Who could blame them? They are accustomed to ringing up McCarter and order a Merchant of Venice at dawn, just like a taxi, in order to pay an illusory debt to pompous audiences who refuse to be bored for two hours without the reward of officially organized hokey.

Police Arrogance Charged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The purpose of this letter is to make it known to the citizens of Princeton the injustices being perpetrated on them by the agencies of local government which they are paying to protect them. Is it the anomic of Princeton's citizens or only their ignorance, which has enabled these agencies to become oppressive? In the hopes that it is the latter, I offer the following experience of a newcomer to this community. Perhaps awareness will lead to some attempt at reform, if not immediately, at least through the ballot in November.

Our first experience with the police department was during a snow storm when my husband was out of town. It had started to snow while I was out and when I returned, I was unable to park the car in our driveway. I was forced to park it in the street.

I immediately called the police and explained my predicament, asking for aid in moving my car. I knew of the overnight parking law and I explained that I did not want to violate it. The reply was, "Too bad, lady, we can't help you. You'll have to get a ticket." Luckily, I located a gas station where I parked the car overnight.

There have been other encounters, memorable only for the general disdain and lack of understanding of the officers involved. Most recently—and this is what prompts this letter—the transmissin in our car locked and the wheels would not move. No tow truck was available that evening so we were pushed to the side of the road, leaving 40 feet of skid marks behind.

Having left a note on the car for the police, calling special attention to the evidence of the skid marks, and having arranged for a tow truck for the following morning, we went to the car. The tow truck was late in arriving, we received a second ticket for illegal parking in a metered area. The first policeman, of course, removed the note.

Naively having faith in the reasonableness of our case, we appeared before the judge to explain the situation. The opinion of an officer who said over the telephone that he was "sure the judge would understand."

He became extremely impatient when we attempted to explain our circumstances and said that the law had been on the books for 40 years. And that was that.

Now I ask you, what is the purpose of the law? Is it to protect the citizens or is it to oppress them? We are going to allow our police force and the law to oppress the citizens of Princeton and to abuse the law by single-mindedly using it as a club to extract revenue for the town, whatever the merits of a citizen's defense?

To whom does the citizen of Princeton turn for protection from the agencies of law enforcement when they become oppressive? To which member of the town government do we turn when we do not know any of the "right" people?

Who will speak up for the ordinary citizens of Princeton, those who have not lived here for 40 years? Is it who you know in Princeton that counts? I have friends who have lived here many years, who know members of the police force. They have committed the same offenses, but these have gone unnoticed.

Are we to spend our time meeting the right people and browsing through the "books" at Borough Hall in order to escape being pushed around? Instead of endeavoring to uphold the law, shall we ignore it and find a fixer in the police force?

Are those of us who lead a quiet and peaceful life in Princeton going to continue having the books thrown at us for the misfortune of having mechanical failure on a public street, while those who rob and murder go free? We have lived in a number of municipalities of varying sizes in four other states before moving to Princeton, and never have we seen a police force so arrogant, and never have they had less reason for being so.

Is this really Princeton?

Bridge Change Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We believe there is no one who doesn't want an alleviation of the dangerous Kingston bridge. But, as is sometimes the case, it looks like the proposed "therapy will hurt or possibly kill the patient." Instead of one "bottleneck," we will have two separated by about two tenths of a mile of a "supervisory" inviting excesses of speed. We know from observation the tragedy of accidents like Mr. Dyest's (Town Topics, February 29) and we sympathize with him. We also feel, however, that Mr. Spagnoli has an excellent point. Current plans do not stop at a "spot improvement" by the side of the road but seem extravagant ($750,000 plus?) and destructive to the area. Good government would want a less ambitious plan unless they are eventually planning to duzimize Route 27 through Princeton.

In a recent correspondence to Gov. Hughes and Commissioner Goldberger, we pointed to recent improvements such as the new blinking warning light. We also asked—

John Hammond: Earning Respect From Those He Serves

KNOW YOUR POLICEMAN (Ninth in a Series)

Township Badge 12. With the exception of the four and one-half years he spent in the Air Force, John Hammond from the time he graduated from Princeton High School in 1955 to the time he joined the Township police force in June, 1962 never remained long in any one of his five previous places of employment.

What has caused him to remain on the Township police force has been a combination of respect and security. "I just got the feeling I wanted to be a policeman and it had a little security to it," he replied when asked why he decided to become a cop. But more compelling, perhaps, was his feeling toward the department.

"I had a lot of respect for the Township police force and I felt the residents had a lot of respect for them, too," he said. He reported that his experience on the force has confirmed his early observation. "You don't have a happy experience with every resident," he said, "but the greatest percentage respect you."

Came to Princeton in 1951. Born in New York City 31 John came to Princeton in 1951, after both his parents died, to live with his uncle, Herman J. Anderson, then secretary of the Township School Board. Another uncle is a retired member of the Trenton police force.

He worked in the shipping department at Educational Testing Service after school and a short time after graduation. Then it was a six-month stint as a parts man for Turcine Motors, followed by a year at Nassau Motors then located on Chambers Street.

He also worked briefly for the New Jersey Glass Co. before joining the Air Force late in 1956.

Trained as an electronics specialist, Hammond spent three years in Germany at a radar site near Würzburg. He traveled extensively, visiting England, France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and Denmark. His two favorite cities were London, which he visited five times, and Copenhagen.

He also developed a liking for the German countryside around Munich which he came

"There has been a 45 m.p.h. zone approaching the bridge for years. The Township of Princeton has recently approved a residents' petition to request the state to lower the speed limit to 35 m.p.h. This could also help."

"Improvements could be made in the several speed signs around the bridge which are confusing. Just before reaching the bridge from Kingston a sign says '45 m.p.h.' Coming the other way, a sign suggests 20 m.p.h."

"There are many modest improvements and a re-planning which could help rather than the 'gutting' of a quaint historical old area at a cost of approximately three quarters of a million dollars or more."

"The 'super way' planned to produce more safety problems in that a false sense of 'speedability' for about .2 of a mile between two restrictions will encourage dangerous excesses and dangerous congestions at the ends. This is also a widely used recreational area both winter and summer."

"Many alternative routes are available and being planned. In the redrawing of plans these should be taken into consideration."

"We can find no opinion or facts which indicate that local governing groups or others advocate the project as well planned. As a matter of fact, few seem to know the real plans."

We agree, some kind of a

to know intimately as a member of a servicemen's rod and gun club. Some of his fondest memories, he recalled, were hunting bear and hoboing with the German farmers and their families.

"I shared a lot of activities with the German hunters," he said, "and I learned a lot from the people." Not all of the German people were friendly towards the Americans, of course, but he told of one incident where he had asked for directions and a German driver personally led him to his destination — which was eight miles out of his way — to make sure he got there.

When he came home, he worked for a year at ETS data processing center and then joined the police force. What changes has he observed since 1962? He hesitated. "There have been a lot of changes," he hesitated again and said: "The pay is better. If it hadn't been for that, I wouldn't have been able to get the house we just moved into."

"You Have to Watch Yourself." "There's more paper work," he continued, "but the biggest change is the new laws. You have to watch yourself—the way you do things. The first time you do something wrong, you're the one who seems like the bad guy. You have to be more careful."

To help the police combat the more stringent laws passed by the courts protecting the rights of the criminal, Ptl. Hammond feels strongly that there should be more opportunities for additional schooling through the department. Said he: "That's the biggest thing toward fighting lawlessness. You can't be a lawyer and a policeman at the same time."

His biggest complaint as a policeman is the lack of respect engendered, unwittingly, among the children by their parents. For example, he said parents will say, "There's a policeman. Watch out! He'll get you, or he'll lock you up."

Married A Canadian, John recently moved with his wife, Marie, to 80 Clearview Avenue with his two children, Kathy, 3, and Mickey (John Michael), 2. He met his wife in Princeton through friends. She is a Canadian and likes to be called Helen. They were married in 1963.

Like many other policemen, John likes to work with his hands. "I have a knack for mechanical things," he said. "If something gets broken, I like to see if I can fix it. My daughter is always bringing me something to fix, saying, 'Daddy can do it.'"

In the future, Ptl. Hammond commented, he would like to attend an electronics school. I was trained for it in the Air Force and I would like to continue with it," he said.

Right now, he doesn't have much time to think about such things. "When you're on the job," he said, "you have to forget about your problems and worry about everyone else's."

By worrying about the problems of others, John Hammond has earned that respect which he feels is so important for policemen to have, not only from his fellow officers but from those he has served.

new bridge is needed.

F. P. SCHLEY

1000 Kingston Road

Higher Speeds Likely.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I want to comment on the letter by Mr. Kenneth J. Dyeston printed in your February 23 issue. I have just reread a letter from Mr. Spagnoli, printed the week before, which Mr. Dyeston attacked.

Mr. Spagnoli's idea of a level, quiet approach to Princeton can be realized. What is needed is a well designed, well placed new bridge posted at a reasonable speed.

I have witnessed the results of a number of ugly situations on the present bridge. It is a narrow, blind curve.

It is heavily posted with terribly misplaced signs. The approach from Kingston is of four lanes posted at 35 m.p.h.

The approach from Princeton is a long, straight stretch with speed limit of 45 m.p.h. Both sides are heavily populated residential sections. The residents on both sides have requested that these limits be lowered.

The Highway Department proposes to remedy this situation with a section of four-lane highway posted at 55 m.p.h. (over), will certainly be exceeded) leading to more potential horrors at higher speed.

I cannot believe that Mr. Dyeston would advocate this. I wish people who have had such terrifying experiences as Mr. Dyeston would write the State. The officials must be forced to post dangerous spots well. When the time comes for a permanent improvement, that must be designed for safety. The area it will serve, and the people who live along it.

I do not know Mr. Spagnoli but I am sure he wrote out of concern for Kingston's current road and traffic problems, which are extreme, and the projected destruction of a beautiful, historic area.

CHARLOTTE J. PIERCE
1113 Kingston Rd.

Historical Values Cited.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing you about a group of three houses, a former flour mill (turned into a residence), and a fine stone bridge built in 1798.

The New Jersey Department of Transportation expects to begin construction of a new four-lane bridge with approaches through this area in the spring. The place is Route 27, the Millstone River, Township, and spring is nearly here.

But a word about the houses: the original farmhouse, built by Henry Greenland, is the oldest in the Millstone Valley. Greenland's farm encompassed all the land in question. The early house is sandwiched between later parts, the newer of which is over 150 years old.

The house is shown in fig. 27 of our book, "Princeton Architecture, a Pictorial History of Town and Campus," Princeton University Press, 1967, by Greiff, Gibbons and Menzies. Since then I have had my book about the Millstone Valley accepted by Rutgers University Press.

In the book about the Millstone Valley I have made further discoveries about this group of houses: Henry Greenland's tavern, as it was, existed in 1683 and was the meeting place of the Proprietors, East and West Jersey in January, 1687, to sign the agreement to run the Partition Line to divide New Jersey.

This line was run from Little Egg Harbor to near Flemington and called the Keith Line. To New Jersey historians it is an important boundary, and it still exists between counties. The place of this meeting was not remembered until I rediscovered it. I bring out the details and documentation in my new book. The Greenland land house is further from the road and will be least affected.

In 1763 Jacob Skillman, the owner of the former Greenland farm offered for sale "two good Frame Houses" (N.J.A., Vol. XXIV, p. 135, bottom). These are the original Greenland "Frame Houses" of Mr. Hendrickson had next to it.

The third house, also mentioned in the N.J.A. reference as "a new Stone Dwelling House, with convenient Merchant's Shop adjoining," is going to be almost shared by the new bridge approach.

The present mill is not the one that Jacob Skillman built, which was burned in the Revolution. However, the Kingston Flour Mills, as it was called, when it was in operation before the miller was drafted in World War II, is a kind of building that will never be built again. It is to be left in a hollow made by the new bridge approach, the mill and the old bridge beside it will both be hemmed in by heavy guard rails.

None of these buildings will be demolished by the bridge approach. But they will be made less livable, prone to abandonment, and the area will be aesthetically ruined.

It is at present a picturesque spot of historic import. Let us keep it so.

ELIZABETH G. C. MENZIES
926 Kingston Road

Bridge Solution Offered.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Ancient Old Historic Bridges in the Princeton Area:

The simplest and most economical method of preserving those land marks was recently suggested successfully in Hunterdon County, at Sergeantville above Stockton, where there is an old narrow covered bridge on a semi-arterial road. This bridge is so narrow that two modern cars could not pass on it and only one car could use the bridge at a time. (A dangerous condition).

To preserve this historic covered bridge, they made one way and a second one way flat bridge was constructed adjacent to it.

It appears to me that there are two old narrow stone (hump) bridges in this area; the Kingston stone arch bridge crossing the Millstone River and the Quaker stone arch (hump) bridge crossing Stony Brook on Princeton Hill (shades of the old Roman Empire), which as two-way bridges are definitely dangerous with modern speeds and traffic.

I am enclosing two very rough sketches of a suggested solution to these presently dangerous two-way bridges (based on the Hunterdon County solution) which I feel will in no way be repugnant to the property owners in these areas.

Only a few small swampy land acquisitions, minimum flat bridges of economical construction, and necessary filling in and paving are required.

I realize that the Kingston bridge will present a problem with the State Dept. of Transportation as it is a State Highway (90% dependent on Federal Funds) but I am sure this economical solution of a dangerous condition would meet with the approval of the late Mr. Morris Goodkin, designer of many modern bridges over rivers in this state.

I STANLEY WARREN
92 Bayard Lane

Editor's Note: Mr. Warren's sketches show the possibility of maintaining the present bridge as a one-way route leading into Kingston and construction of a second bridge, adjacent to it, to carry traffic one-way in the other direction.

TWO-MAN DUEL IN BASKETBALL: John Hummer (44), whose 27 points led Princeton to victory over Columbia Saturday in Dillon Gym, drew a foul from Lionel Jim McMillian on this play, just before first half ended. Tigers took 11-point lead to dressing room, went on to win, 68-57. (TOWN TOPICS photo by Richard C. Edwards)

LION'S SHARE TO LIONS Princeton Loses Ivy Playoff.

If you give the other guy two shots at your chin, when one is all he needs to flatten you, chances are you won't be a round at the finish.

Having set itself up for the knockout ten days ago by losing to Dartmouth on its own court, Princeton went down for the count Tuesday night when confronted with the task of beating Columbia twice in three days. The haymaker that landed on the Tiger's whiskers could be heard from here to Brooklyn.

Capable of handling the New Yorkers in Dillon Gym when even fust Dave Newmark was on the bench, the Orange and Black could not repeat on St. John's neutral court with the big man back in action. Neither could Princeton come close to putting the clamps on super soph Jim McMillian a gun. Whereas he had been held to six points in the first half Saturday (and 23 on the evening), he continued to be the first 20 minutes Tuesday and wound up with a superlative 37.

Although there were times when abortive Princeton rallies made it appear that the defending champions would at last be back in the ball game, it was really Columbia virtually all the way. With a scant two minutes gone, the eager Lions moved in front, 6-0, on McMillian and never trailed thereafter.

Tigers in Trouble. Although not poor enough to be completely outclassed, Princeton ran second to the new champions in just about every department. The losers had more costly turnovers, particularly in early going when a basket would have made a big difference.

Rebounds were even, but the Tigers shot 66% to Columbia's 90 at the foul line. In field goal percentage, it was 53 for Princeton and 50 for the New Yorkers.

There was, of course, always McMillian, whom John Hummer simply could not contain a second time. He had almost half his team's points at the half, which ended with the Lions ahead, 43-33. After the intermission, Columbia ripped off 10 straight points in one surge, and when both Hummer and Geoff Petrie fouled out long before the clock ran out, it was merely a question of the size of the score. That turned out to be 94 to 72.

Joe Heiser, completing a standout Princeton career, led the Tigers with 17 points, although he had the misfortune to see three of his eight foul fouls go astray, thus removing him from the top of the national list in free throw accuracy. Chris Thonforde and John Hearflow, both made 10. Hummer was held to 10.

The victory marked Columbia's first Ivy title in 17 years and in all probability began a reign for the Lions that will last until McMillian ends his career in 1974. The Light Blue will face LaSalle (20-7) in first-round NCAA competition at the University of Maryland Saturday at 1:15 - TV on Channel 11.

LYN FINALE SUCCESSFUL
Last Game a Thriller. The late Cappy Cappon, who so ably created the firm foundation on which Princeton basketball exists today, would have loved the game that, wrote the final chapter in the Dillon Gym record book. Princeton's 68-57 victory over Columbia Saturday night had much of the drama that is packed into a contest between quietists battling for first place, as the Tigers broke up a ding-dong affair in the final three minutes to win.

When ground was first broken for the new Jadin Cage four years ago, belief was that it would be ready for the 1976-77 season. Construction problems, strikes and the cost-price squeeze have all taken their toll, however, and Dillon was the Tigers' lair for another winter. Saturday's game is expected to be the last intercollegiate basketball contest.

I would, of course, have been even more memorable had the Orange and Black been in a position to win the Ivy title by defeating Columbia here in the gym finale. The 62-60 loss to Dartmouth negated that opportunity, however, and the best Princeton could hope to do was to pull itself even with the Lions, thus forcing the 12th playoff in Ivy history.

Tuesday night's meeting at St. John's was the eighth such contest in which the Tigers had participated and the third with Columbia. Princeton won the previous two post-season battles with the New Yorkers, in 1953 at New Brunswick and in 1952 in Philadelphia.

Hummer Duels McMillian. Rarely has a game involving a possible playoff seen a man-to-man confrontation as that staged by a pair of sophomores, Jim McMillian of Columbia and Princeton's John Hummer, the latter had the better of it, to a great extent because he played better basketball but also because he had stronger support from his teammates than McMillian did.

With both teams playing man-for-man, a good deal of a college rivalry (although Cornell and Princeton had 24 hours earlier), Hummer spent the entire evening guarding the Lions' ace. In the vital first half, which gave the home forces an 11-point lead (28-17) that they desperately needed in the final period, Hummer held his opponent to six—four fouls and a lone field goal. The Tigers' 6-7 forward meantime netted 15, ten of them in a stretch of less than five minutes midway through the round that gave Princeton an 18-10 cushion.
After Hummer demonstrated that he was too much for Roger Walasek, Lion coach Jack Rohan switched McMillian to the task of guarding the Princeton sophomore. It was an essential move, but one

TWO-MAN DUEL IN HOCKEY: Princeton drew even with Cornell in first period Saturday in Baker Rink when Terry Peterman skated in on Ken Dryden alone, beat the visitors' goalie with a sharp shot under his outstretched leg. However, Tigers could not score again, losing to the Ivy and NCAA champions, 3-1. (Richard C. Edwards Photo) that nearly broke up the ball game midway through the second half when McMillian picked up three quick penalties to raise his total to four. As matters turned out, only Walasek fouled out, but McMillian was restricted in his motions on both offense and defense. Columbia's Jim Dotson also played much of the second half with four, as did Chris Thomford, Geoff Petrie and John Haarlow. Hummer? No more than two, after 40 minutes on the Ivy League's leading scoring leader.
In the end, Hummer had 27 points to 23 for McMillian, the biggest single factor in the reverse of the Lions' 68-60 triumph in New York, when McMillian made 33 and the injured Princetonian, playing only briefly, was shut out. A vital statistic, too, was the percentage of shooting accuracy: since McMillian made only ten of 23, 13 times after he shot the shorter Lions had to battle for rebounds. In contrast to the Columbia sophomore's 44%, Hummer hit on 9 of 13 for 69%.
Hummer's inside devilry from a low post and Petrie's combination of outside pop shots and occasional driving layups provided more firepower than the Lions could match. Dave Newmark's injury hurt them badly, although Princeton's problems in this regard were by no means solved when 6-6 Larry Berger, a starter only when Newmark has been on the bench, clearly outplayed the 6-9 Thomas Turde.

Lions Make It Close. From the introduction deficit of 11 points, Columbia showed poise and ability by outscoring the home team to the extent that it drew even at 4-4 with 9:15 to go. Princeton never felt behind, however. Heiser, Hummer and Petrie keeping slightly ahead of the best efforts of McMillian, Walasek and Berger.
With 17:40 left, McMillian sank a pair of free throws to narrow the Tiger lead to 58-53. In the remaining time, however, the Tigers got a driving layup by Petrie, four free throws by Heiser, two more by Thomford and a length of the floor sleeper by Lawler.
Those ten points so over shadowed the two Lions were able to make that when Hummer stole the ball at mid-court with four seconds left and sailed in alone for a magnificent but wholly illegal stuff shot, the decisive gesture that beat the partisan Princeton SRO crowd of 3,200 in an uproar at the final buzzer.

GAME OVER AT THE HALF: Cornell Fades Early. As the introduction to the only two good back-to-back weekend games it played at home this season, the Princeton basketball team wrapped up its Friday night contest against Cornell by taking a 47-22 lead in the dressing room. It was

There are a lot of good cars you can get for $3400.
This is two of them:
If you don't happen to need two cars, there's only one thing that you need less. One car that costs as much as two cars.
Unless you want to pay a lot of money for a lot of horsepower that you'll never use. There's only one state in the country where you can go faster than a Volkswagen—Nevada. (No speed limit—they're big gamblers out there.)
The only extra horsepower you really need is for all those power gadgets. Which you need to drive a car that size. Which has to be that size to hold all those horses.
All of which also makes the average car cost almost as much to run as two Volkswagens. Considering a VW gets as much as 27 miles to a gallon of gas.
But if you're still not sold on the idea of a big bang for the price of one beast, why not take advantage of this special introductory offer. One Volkswagen for half the price of two.

TITLE SWIMMING HERE
Championships Start Thursday. The 28th annual Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Championships will be held in Dillon Pool this weekend, starting Thursday and continuing afternoon and evening through Saturday. Defending champion Yale, paced by Olympic titlist Don Schollander, is expected to have little difficulty churning to a sixth straight victory.

Princeton, upset by Army Saturday in the final dual meet of the season, has one entrant who will seek to repeat in his specialty — Ross Wales, winner of the butterfly event a year ago. Holt Manners, the Tigers' diving ace, also figures to make a strong showing.

Schollander, winner of four gold medals at the 1984 Olympics in Tokyo, will defend his titles later this year at Mexico City. In the Eastern this weekend, he will swim in the 500-yard freestyle Thursday, the 200-yard freestyle Friday and the 100-yard freestyle Saturday.

Events range from the 50-yard freestyle to a race of 1850 yards (just under one mile); specially races of varying distances in the butterfly, breaststroke and backstroke, including a medley; relay races of four-man teams over 400 and 800-yard distances; and diving from one and three-meter boards.

Entries will come from the Eastern Intercollegiate League, plus a number of other invited college, totalling about 20 in all. The afternoon programs will start at 1 o'clock, and the evening sessions at 8. Tickets (priced at $6.50 for the entire meet but available for the individual sessions also) are on sale at the Dillon Gym office.

TWO HAT COACH: Larry Ivan will doff his basketball coach's hat for that of track coach. He is the only one at PHIS to serve as head coach of two major sports.

HUN TEAMS HONORED
At Sports Banquet. The Hun School basketball and fencing teams were honored Saturday night at a father son sports banquet held at the Princeton Inn.

The Red and Black varsity basketball team, coached by Dave Leece, was singled out for capturing the Penn-Jersey League championship with a mark of 11-1. The fencing team won the team trophy and the first-place foil awards of the N. J. Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, Headmaster, presented awards to the members of each team who demonstrated the greatest desire to improve and contributed most to the team. Recipients were Peter Brave-man, basketball; Peter Corben, fencing; Fred Cline, wrestling; and Peter Fogarty, swimming.

Captains elected for next year's teams were announced by athletic director Hawley Waterman. They are Don Silverman, basketball; David Keele, fencing; Paul Lomeo and Norb Donnelly, wrestling; and Peter Laufbahn and Mike Kubach, swimming.

Main speakers for the banquet were Emil Francis, general manager and coach of the New York Rangers hockey team, and Walter Michaels, line coach for the New York Jets football team.

PRINCETON NAMED SITE
Of State Tennis Tourney. The Princeton Chapter of the New Jersey Jaycees has been selected as the host for the 1988 State Junior Tennis Tournament, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 5 and 6. Matches will be held on the Community Park courts.

Princeton was represented at the meeting by Howard Berger, president of the chapter, who gave a presentation in its behalf, assisted by James Shields and Frank Micheletti. Boys and girls will be split into two divisions, one for 15-16 year-olds and the other for 17-18 year-olds. Those who will be 19 during this year will be ineligible.

DIXON LEADS FMC
To Win Over RCA. A 21-point effort by John Dixon sparked FMC to a 45-40 triumph over RCA in action in the YMCA Industrial Basketball League last week.

With the score knotted at 14-14 at the half, FMC rallied in the second half to pick up the win. Steve Grossman dropped in 19 points for the losers.

In the second game, the Hospital wallowed ETS, 86-55, as six of its players hit in double figures. Roger Madden and Billie Hill led the medical staff, with 21 and 18 points respectively. Don Gourey led ETS scorers with 20.

Tennis Meeting Set

A meeting to plan activities for the Community Tennis program this spring will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 12 at the Community Park School auditorium, 12-13 Alden Dunham, chairman of the group, will lead a discussion of plans for tournaments, ladders, and leagues, also outlining junior events and setting up volunteer committees.

Junior high, high school, or college students who may wish to instruct tennis, are invited to attend an organizational session of Leader Corps and Counselor Training Program, to begin at 7 p.m., before the adult meeting.

Mr. Dunham has also announced the exhibition planned for March 16 by Arthur Ashe, Manuel Santana, and two top-ranked women, to officially open the Mercer County Indoor Tennis Center.

ST. PAUL'S VICTOR
In VSO Basketball. A 55-54 overtime win against Our Lady of Sorrows gave St. Paul's School a first round victory last week in its campaign for the basketball championship of Trenton's Catholic Youth Organization league.

Sparked by John Courson's 15 points and 12 by Kevin Tylus, who may be remembered for his exploits not only in Midget League football last fall, but also on the baseball diamond in the summer. St. Paul's snapped a 13-game O.L.O.S. win streak. It will meet St. Stephens, eastern division winners, Thursday evening at the CYO center.

NEWS COVERAGE OF RIOTS DEBATED: Does full coverage of race riots by news media prompt more violence? "It could have some effect on those who are naturally weak," says T. J. Johnson. "Those who don't know what they want," he adds. (Staff Photo)

Question Of The Week

Question: Does full coverage of racial trouble by TV and the press prompt more violence?

Where asked: Witherspoon Street.

T. J. Johnson, Trenton, parking attendant for Ford Park and Shop lot: Yes, I think it could encourage some people. People who are just naturally weak, who don't know what they want, they just might do it. They'll be governed by what they see on TV. According to the Bible, some day father will rise up against son, and son against father. Believe it or not, this is that time. This is happening now.

Mrs. Robert Tibbetts, Cranbury, housewife: I think it probably does multiply it — definitely! One can't help be biased by what one sees. And what one sees is what television chooses to show us. If we are shown true coverage, all right, but how does one determine that? This is the difficult problem.

J. C. Van Cleeve, Carson Road, employee, M.I.S.: I don't feel it does prompt any more violence, although I don't have any solid reason for saying so. I don't feel that there is any great reaction to TV coverage.

Wayne Bell, 226 Halsey Street, graduate student, linguistics and classics: There has been a lot of discussion about this and I'm inclined to go along with people who say this is a contributing factor — although I won't stress it. Mayor Lindsay answered essentially the same question on TV this week, and his reply was that by and large we have had a responsible press.

Miss Ruth Dunas, 26 Witherspoon Street, research assistant: It certainly does not. I think it would help to clarify the issue.

ipped by Immaculate Conception, 3:32, and knocked off Holy Cross, 53-47.

Tylus and Courson again contributed most of the points, while Mike Franko and Ken Huber provided strong rebounding. Captain Steve Stone and Kurt Ebrahman also added significantly in the victories. St. Paul's record stands at 14-2.

ROCKY & SONS HAS LEAD in Women's Bowling League, in a three-way tie last week for first place, Rocky & Sons now has the top spot. In the Women's Bowling League to itself as it leads Swift's Colonial Diner and Kingsway Motors, 16-14. Four other teams are tied for third place with eight points each.

While Rocky was taking over, Rosso's Cafe fashioned both the week's high team series of 2483 and the high team game of 889. The latter is a new league high.

Individually, Florence Dey of Cranbury Bank was high with 222-173 (546). Second was Marilyn Wilson of Rug Mart Yardstick's with 201 (510).

The next four in line — all members of Rosso's — were Flo Ivins, 194 (503); Marilyn Silver, 182-170 (511); Sara Rose, 180; and Betty Cooper, 179.

BOWLING NOTES
 Pfister Bowler of Week: A final game 202 would have given Joe Pfister of the Nassau League a 700 series last week at the Princeton Recreation Lanes. As it was, Joe rolled 245-233-167 for a 665 — his middle game earning him the TOWN TOPICS Award with the high single game of the week. Among the women, Jane Rauch picked up the TOWN TOPICS Award with her 172. Seven other women fashioned higher scores but were ineligible as former winners.

There were two other 600 series in the Nassau League — a 607 by Jim Shelby, whose high game was 226, and a 606 by Claude Pinelli — high game 237. Former TOWN TOPICS winner Jerry Perpetua had a single game 258.

Other high, single games: Dick Traeger's 224, Nick Scularati's 223, and Tom Woods 211.

Princeton Aviation gained in the standings to tie Tiger Garage and R & D Atlantic for first place. All three have 38 points. Grover Lumber is second with 36.

Rocky Hill and Mercer No. 3 are 1-2 in the Tri-County Friends' League with 24 and 22 points. Hook and Ladder (18) and Lawrenceville and Plainsboro (16 each) trail.

Bob Richardson and Bill Davall led the most pins. Bob rolled 215-176-213 — 604 and Bill, 226-194-181 — 601. Working the pins for two fine games were Mel Tridell, 205-234; Harry Kahny, 203-229; Dick Anderson, 192-203; Joe Pfister, 202-211; and Carmen Panico, 204-198. Elmer Perantoni had the high single game — 213.

NEW DIRECTOR NAMED

To First National Board. Anthony J. Maruca, Province Line Road, has been named to the board of directors of the First National Bank of Princeton. Ralph H. Mather, president, has announced that Maruca is executive director of administrative and personnel services at Princeton University.

A 1954 graduate of Princeton, Mr. Maruca joined the University staff in 1959. He was appointed assistant to the financial vice-president and treasurer in 1962 and named assistant treasurer three years later.

In his present position, Mr. Maruca is responsible for the Office of Personal Services, dealing with personnel administration for approximately 2,400 non-academic employees. He has served as a trustee of the University Store and as treasurer of the Family Service Agency of which he remains a director.

WE'RE SEVENTY-FIVE

The First National Bank of Princeton, which first opened its doors at 90 Nassau Street on March 6, 1893, is celebrating its 75th birthday.

Three-quarters of a century later, its assets total almost $70 million. It had added two drive-in, branch offices, one at 370 Nassau Street and another in Princeton Junction, and three offices, First National offers a full-range of banking services.

"Community banking is a very personal business. We have become deeply involved with the area and its people," said Ralph Mather, president of the bank.

"If I had to select one thing to be proud of, it would have to be the fact that at First National we have always tried to provide individual service to every member of the community."

Saying that First National has helped to bring about many of the vast innovations in banking, Mr. Mather added, "We must keep abreast of these changes in order to provide the services our customers are entitled to." He pointed out that the use of one of these innovations — electronic bookkeeping equipment — has enabled the bank to credit interest from the day of deposit on all regular savings accounts.

Mr. Mather concludes: "Looking back it is interesting. It's fun to note the growth and take a certain pride in having been a part of it. But the real fun is in looking ahead. That's where the challenge lies."

The First National Bank has moved up 10 places in the list of 15,000 American banks published by the American Banker. The bank is now number 680.

TWO ARE PROMOTED

At Princeton Savings. Andrew F. Donlin has been named assistant treasurer and Mrs. Jeanette F. Clayton, assistant secretary, at Princeton Savings & Loan Assn.

A graduate of Sacred Heart High School in Elizabeth, a resident of Clark, Mr. Donlin, studies at the American Savings and Loan Institute and is attending Seton Hall University. He also served two years in the army.

Mrs. Clayton had been on the staff of the First National Bank of Princeton as a bookkeeper and a teller at its West Windsor branch before joining Princeton Savings in May.

TV REPAIRMAN
AT YOUR SERVICE
The Greatest... Best... Fastest... How many times have you seen and heard these words in ads selling service... we admit, we've used them ourselves. But we have found that you can't sell a service with superlatives. We simply say that we think our TV Repair Service is merely better than adequate... it's only GOOD.

We have trained, competent technicians with years of experience in their profession to back that statement.

And most of all, we have many satisfied customers... which is, after all, our ultimate goal.

Do us a service... call 921-8300 today so that we may serve you!

But from the authentic lines of this two-year old four-bedroom colonial home, he might well have. To details like the steeply pitched roof narrow clapboard siding and a nice sense of proportion, add central air-conditioning, two and a half baths, luxurious with Italian tiles and a gourmet kitchen.

If you like a formal living room, a dining room sized for entertaining and a cozy study, AND if you like a small lot with trees on a dead-end street without lots of grass cutting or sidewalk shoveling, this house may be for you.
